Little In Return For Much

IT is gradually becoming apparent that the Commonwealth conference held in London to find ways and means of stabilising the future of south and southeast Asia achieved only partial success. Agreement on a six-year economic rehabilitation plan was one positive outcome, but the value of this appears to be qualified by the reluctance of the beneficiary countries to give any assurances as to future political policy. Britain and Australia, as the prime sponsors of the rehabilitation scheme have, from the outset, made it clear that they regard any expensive programme to which they would inevitably be financially committed as complementary to the pursuance by the beneficiary countries of a determined anti-Communist political policy. Now, it transpires, that some of these Asian countries, while only too happy to accept economic assistance in the way of foreign capital investment and the provision of essential consumer commodities, are not so willing to accept obligations of pursuing a well-defined political policy designed to guarantee the permanent success of a long-term economic assistance plan. The full and willing co-operation of the participating countries is a prime factor in such a vast development and mutually-protective scheme as that envisaged at the London Commonwealth conference; nothing should be forced on the countries whose future welfare—economic and spiritual—is the raison d'être for the programme sponsored by Britain. Nevertheless, Britain, Australia and other Commonwealth countries who will be expected to foot a goodly proportion of the bill associated with the economic development scheme are fully entitled to receive assurances from those countries they are seeking to help, that no line of foreign policy will be followed calculated to

RETREAT IS OVER

Brilliant Manoeuvre

Saigon, Oct. 8.
Two French columns, retreating under Communist fire, have reached the protection of the big guns of Thakhe in Tonkin province, a French military spokesman said today.

The withdrawal by Legions, Africans and Vietnamese began on Tuesday when Headquarters ordered the frontier forces of Cuabang, 31 miles north of Thakhe, evacuated. Communist-led Vietnamese forces had heavily infiltrated the area and had Cuabang, which had been supplied for over a year by air, untenable.

The troops destroyed defence works and started south, but their march was slowed by civilian refugees. A second column was despatched north from Thakhe to cover the retreat. Both columns successfully defended a series of ledges in the rebel-infested mountains through a gauntlet of Vietnamese fire, the spokesman said.

Cobra fighters circled overhead, but yesterday bad weather hampered strafing as well as transports dropping food from the air.

CIN-CI'S PRAISE

General Marcellin Carpentier, French commander-in-chief, today congratulated the Southern Command on its "brilliant results" in Cochin-China. A spokesman said Southern Indo-China was relatively quiet and French forces were "mopping up" areas around Cuangnam, 75 miles south of Saigon, and Chaudoc, about 100 miles southeast of Saigon. Algerian infantrymen killed 250 Communist native soldiers on Wednesday in the Cuangnam operation, the spokesman said. Near Saigon itself, stocks of Communist arms were captured. The spokesman also reported that mopping-up continued in the North near Thainguyen, rebel stronghold north of Hanoi seized by the French earlier in the week. —United Press.

Tobacco Goes Up In Smoke

Behuno, Northern France, Oct. 8.
Enough tobacco to make 300,000,000 cigarettes went up in smoke here last night when one of the country's largest tobacco warehouses was destroyed by fire.

Two hundred firemen finally mastered the flames early today. The three-storey building, with all its modern machinery and 500 tons of tobacco, was a total loss. The flames could be seen for more than 20 miles.—Reuter.

Priest Sees

"Phenomenon"

In The Sky

Bucher, Missouri, Oct. 8.
A Catholic priest said today that he saw a "phenomenon" in the noon day sky yesterday—the letters "Harry" and "V" and a figure holding a cross.

He is the Reverend B. H. Luebbering, Pastor of St. Mary's Church at Wien, Missouri.

He said that about 15 other people in the community, including another priest and three nuns, also saw it.

The vision began at noon and lasted an hour. The priest said at first there was a pink glow then this faded and the letters appeared in a golden light against the sky near the sun.

Ray of sunlight stabbed through the broken clouds but the images were not outlined by the rays.

The cross was very plain, leaning to the east, and there appeared to be the figure of a person holding it, he added. "I would not call it a miracle, I would call it a phenomenon. I have never seen anything like it before."

A man reported here that he saw the image of the cross when he was 20 miles from Wien.

British Ship Wrecked

London, Oct. 8.
British steamer Fred Borchard (1,580 tons), has been wrecked south of the Lofoten Islands, off the Northwest coast of Norway, according to a radio message received by Lloyds shipping agency.

The radio message from the British trawler Boston Fury this afternoon said: "Regret to inform you of total loss of steamer Fred Borchard in position Latitude 67.35 North, Longitude 11.35 East."

"Hull now floating bottom upwards. Twenty-seven of crew rescued, including captain. Search being made for other two."

The Fred Borchard owned by the Fairplay Trawlers and Shipping Company, was bound for London from the Soviet port of Kemi, in the White Sea.—Reuter.

Winning Lead For Vargas

Rio de Janeiro, Oct. 8.
Dr Getulio Vargas, Labour and Social Progressive Party candidate in Brazil's presidential elections, today topped the mark for votes polled in his favour, according to unofficial figures.

These give him 1,216,419 votes—well ahead of his three opponents, whose latest totals were:

Eduardo Gomes, leader of the National Democratic Union, 670,513.

Christiano Machado, Social Democratic (Government) Party, 405,333.

José Mangabeira (Socialist), 20,972.

Senor Café Filho, running on Dr Vargas's ticket for the Vice-Presidency, was also leading with 583,331 votes, according to unofficial results.

Dr Vargas, for 15 years a virtual dictator in Brazil until deposed from the Presidency in 1945, is regarded by observers as almost certain to be elected, but official results are not expected for about a month because of communications difficulties.—Reuter.

Men of the 1st Bn. Royal Ulster Rifles embarking on the 9,000-ton trooper Empire Pride at Liverpool last week. They are heading for Korea. About half the men are regulars, the remainder reservists called back a few weeks ago and extensively trained for Korea.

Tokyo, Oct. 8.
Unconfirmed frontline reports received here tonight said that South Korean forces had entered Wonsan on the east coast of North Korea.

Wonsan, important industrial port for the Communists, was the first major objective of the South Korean drive along the east coast.

No confirmation of the entry—said to have been made by strong patrols meeting with only light resistance—was available either at General MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo or at the advance headquarters in Korea.

A South Korean army spokesman at Taegu did not support the claim made in the frontline reports.

The battle for Wonsan began this afternoon when the South Korean Third Division attacked Communist defences lines along the Andai River, south-west of the port, after overcoming opposition from an estimated force of two companies.—Reuter.

AMERICANS FAN OUT

With The First United States Cavalry Division On the 38th Parallel Oct. 8.

Patrols of the First Cavalry have probed nearly one and a half miles beyond the 38th Parallel.

The First Cavalry, the first American combat unit to reach the Parallel, fanned out along the Northern border today after practically unopposed liberation late last night of Kaesong, over one and a half miles south of the Parallel.

The United States Eighth Cavalry Regiment won the race to be the first on the Parallel. Bursts of machine-gun fire and heavy mortar shelling poured in on them as they moved to their positions across a broad valley.

The Parallel itself runs roughly across a valley at this point. The Communists were dug in on rugged hill slopes at the far end which command the valley and the road north to Pyongyang.

PATROL ACTION

At dawn the Regiment started aggressive patrol action to probe enemy strength. Several small patrols pushed out beyond the Parallel, some of them getting nearly 2,000 yards into North Korean territory.

These patrols reported that strong Communist forces were digging in. Communist troops were seen dragging heavy machine-guns and mortars into entrenched positions.

All enemy activity was of a defensive nature.

It appeared certain that the North Koreans had no intention at this stage of launching any large-scale counter-attack against the United Nations forces in the west.

Nor did they appear to be anxious to antagonise American troops in this area.

American units moving on the Parallel were fired on today but there was no Communist artillery fire behind the lines.

Beyond patrol activity the Americans showed no immediate signs tonight of crossing the 38th Parallel in strength. But there were signs that a large-scale offensive might soon be mounted by United Nations forces at present pouring up to the dividing line from the South.—Reuter.

AIR SUPPORT

At Fifth Air Force's Headquarters, Taegu, Oct. 8.

The Fifth Air Force today flew combat sorties in support of the American First Cavalry Division which this morning sent patrols across the 38th Parallel, near Kaesong.

A communiqué issued tonight said that close support was given to the Division north of Kaesong and to the divisional elements carrying out a flanking movement west and north of the city.

The communiqué did not state on which side of the Parallel this support was given.

The Air Force also heavily raided Wonsan, east coast port and communication centre which

Eyebrow Grooming

By HELEN FOLLETT

TWEEZING is essential to the grooming of the eyebrows, however graceful they may be, because there are always a few strays and stragglers outside the fold. They pop out unexpectedly. But don't make it a point to tweeze down to a thin line; that practice has gone out. Observe the beauteous film stars; they carry forehead scimitars that are normal in pattern.

Follow the natural curve of the brows, pull each unwanted shaft in the direction in which it is growing. Before starting the treatment apply hot compresses to the brows; you will be less likely to find in a weepy job. Afterwards pat on rubbing alcohol with sterile gauze pad to help avoid risk of infection.

Definite Line

If you use the crayon for darkening these interesting features, don't press it heavily into the flesh, forming a definite line. Do little, short strokes the way the hair falls. The colouring matter should be removed at bedtime with soap suds, after which mineral oil should be applied to give the growth lustre.

Mineral oil acts favourably upon the lashes, those little curtains of the soul windows that play so important a part in the facial composition. There is a colourless lash cream prepared for this purpose, in case you prefer to use something from the cosmetic counter. Brushed on with the finger or a tiny, clean brush it imparts a lustrous sparkle. It can also be used on the eyebrows.

When prettying up for the big date, you will find help in the use of an eyelash curler. This treatment requires not more than a minute of time, pays big dividends in results. Simply insert the lashes between the rubber bows of the specially-curved curler, press the scissors handles firmly together, holding until you count ten slowly. Release your grip a little, move the curler out slightly for a new position. Squeeze handles, count up to ten again.

If you use mascara apply it to the tips of your wimblers as they are held in the curler. Upswung lashes seem longer and the eyes appear larger because the dark frame around them gives accent to their depth and colour.

Fashion Tips

HOW DO YOU like the idea of gold and silver velvets? That's what an American designer is doing—filtering velvets of 14 karat gold and sterling silver thread mesh.

MAKE NOTE of the return of the important black dress for late afternoon wear. Slim frocks in satin with a sleek "broadtail" surface are in fashion.

An important looking yet easy casual coat that you'll find yourself slipping into practically every day would be a voluminous plaid topcoat in the brick tones that go with everything. Its soft red lining is a morale builder, its polished blond leather belt a finishing touch. Wear the great collar cape-style or snuggie it up under your chin.

Wool — top news in days of soaring world prices — was the theme of a fashion show at the Savoy. Nine of London's leading dress designers co-operated with the International Wool Secretariat in showing selected models from their autumn export collection which have proved top sellers with overseas buyers.

Exciting glimpses of spring 1951 were given, too, by members of the Incorporated Society of London Fashion Designers. Slim skirts, flaring below the knees, longer jackets, side apron skirts, and coats fitted and half-belted at the back and loose in front with wide-cuffed sleeves, were some of the pointers for the future.

One of this season's popular reversible overcoats was black one side, and brilliant red on the other. Others were plain, reversed with bright checks and tartan.

A Child's First Days At School

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

FOR most children who enter school for the first time in their lives the event is a joyous one. For a few, however, it is a painful ordeal. These few have been tied too close to their mothers and have not had adequate experience doing for themselves what they go to school with this child could do in playing with other for the first few mornings, then children of their own age and for the mother to go to very in settling their own quarrels desirable on the first several and fighting their own battles mornings for this child to have on the home playground. Some of the company of several other of these children have almost never been out of the sight foot, and hearing of their mothers.

Properly, the mother of any young child will go with him to school on his very first day to meet the teacher and present the child to her. But as soon as he meets a few other children, she will go home with him as little ceremony as possible. If the youngster cries after her, she will go anyway and won't look back.

Leaves Promptly

Practically always, if the parent leaves promptly after arriving at the school with the child, the teacher can easily handle the situation with the result that the child soon adapts himself happily. Indeed, what the kindergarten or primary teacher most dislikes is for parents to linger after school begins.

Of course, there is occasionally a very extreme case in which the youngster will wall and cry for hours, and thus upset the entire class. This happens more often in the nursery department of Sunday schools. In such a case the wiser teacher advises the parent to take the youngster home and keep him there for a week or two, gradually weaning him emotionally from her.

One of the Class

If she lingers long the child may cling to her and fall to become one of the class. This is a sorrow may be greater than if she had gone early. Besides, he will want her to linger long the next day. She may find it very difficult to get him to go to school without her for an indefinite period.

Waitress Wins Big Film Role

Happiest girl in Britain's Pinewood Studios is Joan Rice for she has just been given an important role opposite Dirk Bogarde in Harold Huth's film "The Blackmailers". Originally cast for a small part, she so impressed director Marc Allegret that he decided to give her a bigger role.

Born in Derby in the English Midlands, Joan came to London to finish her education at a convent school and then took a job as a waitress at a famous London popular restaurant.

Spotted by artist's agent Joan Hees, she was coached at a dramatic school and then was given a small part in the film "One Wild Cat".

Favourite Fare from Maryland

WE have often mentioned Crab Cakes, Baltimore and Chicken Maryland in this column. But it was from the associate director of the co-operative extension work of the State of Maryland that we learned of several new dishes used by their nutritionist in training schools for Home Demonstration Agents.

"And one of them is a new spiced sweet pickle sauce," remarked the Chef, bustling into the test-kitchen to try it out.

Sweet Potato-Apple Pudding

Oil a qt-sized casserole. Put in a layer of thin-sliced peeled raw apple. Then a layer of sliced peeled raw sweet potato. Sprinkle each layer with a little salt and 1 tsp. sugar. Continue until the dish is filled. Bake covered in a slow oven, 325-350 F., until tender. Sprinkle with 2 tbsp. brown sugar and dot with 1 tbsp. butter. Brown in a hot oven, 375 F.

Spiced Sweet Pickle Sauce

Combine 1 unbeaten egg, 1 c. syrup drained from sweet pickled peaches, and 1/3 c. butter. Mix slightly, slow-cook over a low heat or in a double boiler until thickened, stirring often. This is exceptionally good for ham; for any fruit pudding; any bread or cereal pudding.

Fruit Bars

Preparing the Fruit: Put 1/4 lb. each pitted dates and dried apricots in a qt-sized saucepan. Add cold water to cover; let stand 1/2 hr. Then bring to boiling point, and simmer until the apricots are soft, about 20 min. Drain the fruit from the liquid ready to make into fruit bars.

To Put Together: In a bowl, blend 1/3 c. shortening and 1/2 c. brown sugar. Combine 1 c. dry rolled oats, 1 c. enriched flour and 1/2 c. tsp. soda. Add to the creamed mixture; work into crumbs with the finger tips or or lay pleats one at a time, pinning, basting, pressing as you proceed.

Child's skirt illustrated was made for a 20" hip, and has a 15" finished length. We used 1/4d. of 54" fabric and put in panels at front, back and sides to have enough material with our 1" pleats to go around figure.

First The Hem

First, put a hem 1 3/4" deep. Bring selvage edges together, make a notch at top end of fold indicating centre front. Fold again and notch each side half-way between centre fold and selvages.

Divide each between-panel space into as many 1" pleats as space allows (usually 3 or 4), aiming to lay the pleats so that top of skirt, after pleats are laid, will equal waist measure.

Pin pleats in; press. Baste across top to hold them together until you join them to band.

In our case, we allowed 1" of pleats to come up inside band to be dropped down later as growth requires.

After pleating is done, seam selvages at centre back. Begin at bottom of hem and stitch up to within 5" of top.

Material For Waistband

Usually in strengthening your fabric, you will have enough material to make a waistband. If not enough, use muslin or ribbon.

Cut band size of waist plus 2" for overlap. Turn edges of band in. Stitch pleated top to band, right side of band to wrong side of skirt. Use a narrow seam and a long stitch.

Join three widths together, using two scamps. (One seam is left open until pleats are in.) Use plain pressed open scamps. Put hem in the bottom.

Bring band over to right side of skirt and stitch completely concealing seam. Button

Research Wizard Cannot Help Bald-Headed Men

Among the most frequent callers at the office of Evelyn Ellenson are gentlemen whose heads are bare as a door-knob. They want to know whether Miss Ellenson can produce something to grow back their hair.

"Unfortunately," Miss Ellenson tells them, "nothing yet has been discovered which will grow fuzz on bald pates. Chances are nothing ever will, at least not by my firm."

Luckily, her company does not depend on this type of customer to pay the rent. Most of the callers ask the possible:

GETS MANY JOBS

Miss Ellenson is head of a testing and research laboratory. Most of the jobs which come the way of her and a staff of 16 are what she calls "routine"—testing food for foreign substances, testing water for purity, testing cosmetics to see that they come up to standards set by the Pure Food and Drug Administration.

Even the unusual assignments are all in the day's work.

She did not blink when an elderly man walked in, pleading: "Do something with my hair."

"He was a mess," Miss Ellenson said. "Part of his hair was yellow, part of it pink, part of it green."

He had married a woman much younger than he and wanted to conceal his snow-white cap.

"To do so," she said, "he had gone to a hairdresser for a dye job, with the sad results he brought to us. It took me five hours and several gallons of chemicals to put him back in shape but he went away happy."

COLLEGE PRODUCT

Miss Ellenson came to this business rare to women by way of a major in chemistry at the University of Michigan and graduate study at New York University.

She went to work in 1942 in the laboratory of her uncle, Dr. A. A. Eisenberg, a noted pathologist. After his death, she took over the business and gradually switched from pathological research to a more general field.

One of the current projects at the laboratory is a pellet which when dropped into water, any kind of water, will make it pure and tasteless as that from a bubbling spring.

"We plan to give the idea to Uncle Sam, once we work it out," she said. "GI's then could have pure water to drink no matter where on the globe they are."—United Press.

His Dream Came True

Jaen, Spain. A dream and a winning lottery number landed 72-year-old Juan Moral in jail.

Here is how it happened, according to police:

Shortly before the last national lottery drawing, Moral saw the number 28,221 in a dream.

Moral did not have the 450 pesetas needed for the whole ticket, but that did not matter. He was sure it was a winner so he started selling fractions of the number before buying the ticket.

When Moral finally got around to that little detail, 28,221 already had been sold.

It was bad enough for Moral when the inevitable happened—28,221 drew third prize of 3,000,000 pesetas (US$7,500).

That was all.

Before they heard the sad news, three of the people to whom Moral had sold fractions had celebrated.

One, a sidewalk candy vendor, gave away his whole stock in a gleeful spree. Another, a circus owner, threw a party on the house that included everybody but the animals, and a factory owner treated his entire staff to drinks.

London Diary :

CIGARETTES MAY BECOME DEARER

Will cigarettes cost more next year? Certainly British buyers in the American tobacco market which opened recently are finding that devaluation has raised the cost of Virginia leaf. Some kinds are up by 20 percent.

Cigarette manufacturers are determined to avoid higher prices if possible. Already the retail tobacco trade is in a dangerous position.

The heavy tobacco duty has reduced the number of cigarettes smoked by millions of people and discouraged younger people from starting to smoke.

"We just could not face another increase in price; in fact, we are agitating for a reduction in the tobacco duty as essential for the future of our business," says an official of the National Union of Retail Tobacconists.

Probable solution to the problem is to be found in this year's record tobacco crop in Rhodesia. Already most cigarettes sold as Virginia contain a proportion of empire tobacco. With the extra Rhodesian tobacco this could be increased. Few would notice the difference.

SECRETS OF COMPOSERS

Australian-born composer Percy Grainger carried a bundle of colour photographs when he sailed from Southampton. They showed the eyes of leading British composers: Vaughan Williams, Cyril Scott, Roger Quilter, Frederic Austin, William Walton and John Ireland.

Grainger explains: "I took the photographs to prove most British composers have blue or grey eyes. Everyone I photographed had eyes that colour except Austin: his are a very light hazel."

Grainger and his Scandinavian wife have a continuing quest. They want to find out what inspires a composer, the sort of life he leads, his interests and background. Is his wife a poetess, a painter, a cook or a clubwoman?

LOVES AND QUARRELS

"Our object," says Grainger, "is to provide a record of the loves, the quarrels and the crimes of great composers. I don't think anything should be hidden. The public have a right to know everything."

Grainger lives up to his own belief. He let 25,000 people see his wedding in 1923.

He was conducting at the Hollywood Bowl. At the time his fiancee was in Australia.

"When I asked her if she would like to be married in the Hollywood Bowl," says Grainger, "she thought the Bowl was a kind of grotto like they have in Scandinavia. So she said yes."

Grainger looked at his wife.

"But she seemed to enjoy it," he said.

STILL WITHOUT A ROOF

As winter approaches people who use London Bridge station are wondering whether British Railways are going to replace the glass in the roof.

There is bad news for them.

The work is scheduled for next year. And it is unlikely to be tackled before the end of the winter. Once again uncomfortable months are ahead for London Bridge travellers.

EUROPE CHANGES HOTEL SYSTEM TO SNARE DOLLARS

The last time you saw Paris, her heart may have been young and gay, but her hotels probably did not have enough ice water or orange juice or air conditioning and you had to tramp to the end of the hall to take a bath.

For better or worse, those days are on the wane. Beginning in the autumn tourists will find more "club breakfasts," single beds, pitchers of ice water and private baths in European hotels.

Spicy Food Blamed For Cancer

Japanese wives may not have equal status with their husbands but they have less trouble with stomach cancer for that very reason.

That is the contention of Dr. Claude E. Welch of Harvard University, who is on the faculty of the University of California extension's summer post-graduate course in diagnosis and therapy of cancer.

The connection between the status of Japanese women and low incidence of stomach cancer lies in the use of hot, spicy foods. Since the Japanese wife waits until her husband has eaten before she serves herself, her food is cooled enough to make it less irritating.

Gastric ulcer is a common ailment in Mexico and other countries where food is highly seasoned, Dr. Welch said.

Rubberised Playground

Akron, Ohio. Some youngsters in this area will not come sobbing home next summer with skinned knees, that is, if they go to Margaret Park school playground.

C. S. Hamlet of the Board of Education described a new rubber-coated playground being installed at Margaret Park which is made of ground rubber, bound to a slab base with an asphalt preparation.

Hamlet said the Board has been looking for a safe and satisfactory new surface for the grounds and feels this may be the answer. However, he said: "We won't know for a couple of years, at least. We have to give the surface time to deteriorate."

Ideally, Hamlet said, grass is the best, but it is impossible to keep a lawn with children romping all over it.

Catalogue Of Woes

ALL this, and plenty more of the same sort of despondency is hurled at the visitor from all sides, and although some of it is utter nonsense, the average Englishman-at-home becomes aggrieved if any doubt cast upon his catalogue of woes.

The trouble is, of course, that Britons have for so long lived very close to troubles and have had to bear such a succession of hardships that they are unable today to appreciate the vast improvements in living conditions which, to the visitor, are immediately visible.

Food, for instance, is today but a minor problem, where, 18 months ago, it was a sorry trial for every housewife.

Travel facilities—roads and rail—are excellent; fast, on schedule, comfortable, and by motor coaches, comparatively cheap.

STEWART GRAY, Editor of the Hongkong Telegraph, has just revisited England for the first time after 15 years. He returns after six months with some interesting observations of the

LAND THAT IS FOR EVER GRUMBLING

GRUMBLING, that cherished prerogative of the Englishman, is still the most popular pastime in the Old Country—and it's not taxed!

You find your Englishman-at-home grumbling about everything and nothing with disarming impartiality.

It is still the surest sign that he is thoroughly enjoying himself and wouldn't willingly change his state of life for anything else.

And, as is customary, the government of the day is the principal target of his rough and caustic wit. Everything that fails to go just right according to the self-defined yardstick of the average Englishman-at-home is the fault of the government.

And you are solemnly expected to believe, within 24 hours of your arrival, that the country is ruined; that it no longer enjoys any prestige abroad; that the nation has been turned into a conglomeration of knaves and rogues whose prime function in life is to "do somebody down"; that labour refuses to give an honest day's work; that taxation is making life unbearable.

Yet, you are solemnly expected to believe, within 24 hours of your arrival, that the country is ruined; that it no longer enjoys any prestige abroad; that the nation has been turned into a conglomeration of knaves and rogues whose prime function in life is to "do somebody down"; that labour refuses to give an honest day's work; that taxation is making life unbearable.

Television aerials are appearing in their thousands, from the roofs of cottages as well as the chimney stacks of mansions. And television sets are not yet cheap—£50 is about the lowest priced, and models range up to £150.

Yet, labourers and office workers, artisans as well as the well-to-do, are daily, and in vastly increasing numbers, buying their television sets.

And when it comes to taking the annual holidays, there are few signs of cheeseparing.

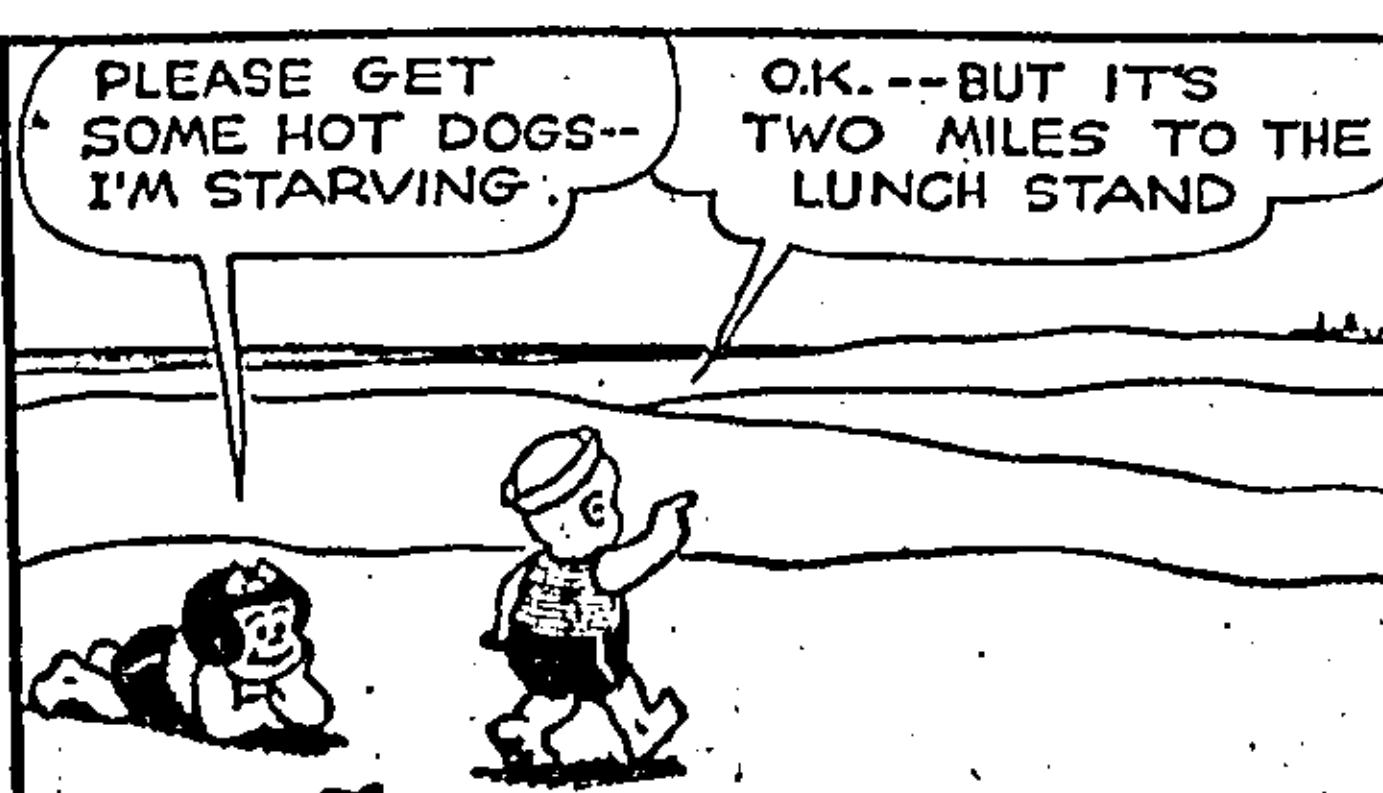

Balanced Diet

FOR example, the waitress in the Regent Palace Hotel who, without a trace of self-consciousness, disclosed that she was flying to the Continent for her holiday—something which would have been far beyond her means ten years ago.

The people of England, especially the children, look healthier today than ever before, and in this respect Australia—indeed, the world—cannot be an asterisk for it has enforced a balanced diet and eliminated wasteful gorging on stuff of questionable food value.

NANCY

A Frank Footer

Entertainments are at probably their highest-ever level, with the London and leading provincial theatres offering a wealth of cleverly-written plays, brilliantly produced musicals, and lavishly presented ice and roller-skating shows which leave similar Hollywood versions in the shade.

Despite nationalization, public services are functioning smoothly and efficiently.

But it is the improved standard of living among the poorer classes which is so striking to the visitor.

Not So Slummy

Everybody in England, today, is well dressed, because everybody can afford to be. Moreover the much-criticized utility garments have been and still are a boon, for they are made from good materials at prices which fit every pocket.

To the visitor, whether he be an Englishman returning home after a long absence, or somebody seeing the place for the first time, one of the most impressive features in town and country are the magnificently tended house gardens.

All the pride and affection of an Englishman for his home are embodied in these neat, trim and gay little gardens, and their colourfulness are a never-ending source of delight to the eye and the senses.

It is doubtful whether any country in the world has better country roads and subsidiary roads than those in England today, making motoring a real joy and adding just that touch of satisfaction to the delightful pursuit of "seeing the countryside."

And for holiday-making, England remains as good as anywhere else in the world, and better than most other places.

THE PRINCE ASTONISHED THEM

By C.V.R. Thompson

NEW YORK. WORKERS in that part of New York known as the garment district were astonished the other day to find out that a prince had taken a job among them.

They had thought that Eze always called Izzy—was just another Negro.

But Louis Bloom, boss of the small factory where Eze worked, made an announcement: Eze's real name is Ezeewunwa Anyinwa Oguer, and he is heir to the spiritual and political leader of 7,000,000 Negroes.

In a cosy Long Island flat Ezeewunwa explained what he did. Said he: "I wanted to learn what it was like to do common labour. Rulers don't realise how much the common man works."

But Eze-Sergeant Lloyd Nabby, of Dallas, Texas, produced a copy of the picture which he had kept since 1944. It was taken near Nancy in France, and the "prince" were liberated people whom the Red Cross had fitted out with G. I. uniforms.

THE FIRST New Yorker to build an atom-bomb shelter is a former Russian prince, Serge Obolensky. Owner of one of the city's best hotels, he announced that he has completed two storeys below ground level a hide-away for the staff and guests.

cans are no longer worrying about a picture they saw in their newspapers the other day. Released by the Communists in Korea, it purported to show columns of American prisoners-of-war being led to camps behind the lines.

'State-trained houseworker'

—that's officialese for 'maid'

It working in one home did not suit her, she could join the Institute's daily houseworker service, now running in a dozen towns, and get paid 2s. 6d. an hour.

But among the half million domestic servants in this country there are fewer than 1,200 diploma holders like Kathleen.

Each one's skill has cost the taxpayers from £100 to £210.

Before Kathleen went to Leeds she has spent six months living at a training centre. During that time she was paid 19s. a week.

How was she trained?

For 20 hours she learned how to settle down and get along nicely with a family. Sixty hours went on first-aid and home nursing, 105 on daily housework. (Such things as how to clean floors, make beds, lay carpets, spring-clean, keep away moths, mend fuses, handle carpet sweepers, iron, refrigerators, etc.)

She learned how to cook and do shopping in 90 hours; how to deal with the laundry from wash-day to fine blouses in 60 hours.

She spent another 45 hours with needles and sewing machines.

Then she went out to work as a student in a suburban home for four months.

At the end of that time Kathleen took a ten-hour test at the training centre and went home with a diploma.

'Pleased'

KATHLEEN BRIGGS and other trained houseworkers I have met this week seem pleased with their work. The employers seem pleased with them, too.

It seems that the old, drab story of gooty-faced "generals" and tiny Mrs. Mope has taken a brighter twist.

But I said to Mrs. Marjorie Spikes, chief officer at the houseworkers' bitchy polished West End headquarters: "Will housewives be as willing to accept the Institute's terms when there are thousands of State-trained houseworkers looking for posts?"

The former attache for women's affairs at Washington said: "I don't think we shall have any trouble at all over that."

On the crest

MEANWHILE, not one housewife in a thousand who can afford to pay for domestic help has ever seen one of these State-trained girls come walking up the path.

With at least 1,500,000 wives still eager to get some help in the home, nearly any domestic servant who can hold a wiping-up cloth can pick her post.

The diploma girls are riding in on a wave. With the taxpayers giving each one of them something like a £200 stand-off.

U.S. Congress Election Getting Under Way

Republicans Expected To Bring Off Slight Gains

Washington, Oct. 8.

One month from today, on November 7, United States voters will decide who will occupy the entire 435 seats in the House of Representatives and 36—or one-third—of the Senate seats in the Congress.

Foreign policy, especially the defence of a free world against Communist aggression, has developed into one of the biggest issues in this election.

The Democratic Party under President Truman's leadership controls both Houses of Congress at present, but political history favours substantial gains for the opposition. In an election of this type, the opposition Republicans are conceded some chance to win control of possibly one chamber. They controlled the Congress before the last election in 1948.

The present strength of Democrats is 260, Republicans in the House is approximately 240-170 and in the Senate 34-42.

Gains for Republicans would be normal this year because this is a so-called "off year" election, which means one which falls midway between Presidential elections. The latter occurs every four years. When there is a race for the Presidency and members of Congress are being elected at the same time as in 1948 when President Truman won, the party in power usually can bring out a much larger vote than usual. This is because that people are more inclined to vote for the President than simply for members of Congress.

FAVOURS OPPPOSITION

When an off year election comes two years later, then voters incline to feel secure in results obtained in the Presidential election year and do rally to polls in as large numbers as the opposition. Consequently, this year favours some Republican gains.

Until late in mid-September it appeared that the Republicans might sweep into power in both houses due to popular revulsion over the military reverses in Korea. But as the tide of battle has turned, the consensus of impartial observers is that President Truman's Democratic Party is almost certain to keep control of at least one house and more likely both houses.

Nevertheless, there is sharp political skirmishing over the conduct of foreign policy with the opposition charges that Mr Truman's Democrats allowed the United States to suffer "Pearl Harbour No. 2" in the Korean affair and that they have "abandoned" most of Asia to the Communists by a policy of "appeasement" of Russia, particularly in China.

ASLEEP TO DANGER

The reference to Pearl Harbour is an allegation that the leadership of the United States was asleep to the danger of attack. In Korea just as were the defenders of Pearl Harbour in Hawaii, when the Japanese bombed in 1941 to bring the United States into World War II.

Another aspect of the opposition attack on the present United States leadership concerns alleged toleration of Communists and their "pink" friends within the government itself.

Some Republican candidates for the Congress are boasting their campaigns on promises to "clean up" government offices.

The Democrats, on the contrary, contend that most of the admitted cases of Communists or their sympathizers holding office were several years ago at a time when the United States was working with Russia for the defeat of the Nazis.

Government officials claim that they have long since removed any persons from office who might be subversive. However, some Republicans, as for example Senator McCarthy, have won spectacular nationwide publicity with charges that influential Communists and "appeasement-minded" persons remain within the government particularly in the State Department.

TAFT CONTEST

One of the most hotly contested and important election races is in Ohio, where Republican Senator Robert Taft is engaged in a contest which could decide who will be the next United States President. His opponent is a relatively obscure state auditor named Joe Ferguson, but a man who has widespread backing among powerful labour unions and the Democratic party political machine.

Senator Taft is chairman of the Republican Party Policy Committee in the Senate and is considered by some as an outstanding figure in his Party in the Congress. If he wins in Ohio, he is conceded a strong chance of becoming the Republican Presidential candidate in 1952. He is a veteran cam-

THE FUTURE OF AUSTRIA

New York, Oct. 8. The Austrian Foreign Minister, Dr Karl Gruber, arrived here this afternoon by plane from London en route to Washington to discuss with State Department officials the change-over from military to civilian administration of the Allied Zone of Austria.

Before leaving for Washington, he is scheduled to confer briefly here with Mr Walter Dornier, newly-appointed High Commissioner and United States Minister to Austria.

Asked to comment on Russo-

Austrian relations, Dr Gruber said: "We had some bad experiences with the Russians lately.

It was presumed he was referring to the Red-inspired general strike.—United Press.

He also has shown traditional mid-Western caution about future matters. For example, he argued against the North Atlantic Pact and arms aid for Europe, although he favoured the Marshall Plan. In general, he is considered more "conservative" than the Roosevelt-Truman element which still dominates the Democratic Party and which is popularly considered "more liberal" in labour relations and international affairs.—United Press.

London, Oct. 8. Only 200 dockers at the port of Hull in North-East England attended a meeting today when four dockers from Liverpool tried to enlist support for a demand for higher wages.

There are over 40,000 dockers at Hull. The visitors left without finding volunteers to form an Action Committee.

London, Oct. 8. The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr Geoffrey Fisher, today appealed for a day of national prayer on United Nations Sunday, October 29, "because the fear of war broods over the face of the earth."

London, Oct. 8. British and West German experts have satisfactorily concluded talks on a new Anglo-German payments agreement to fit in with the European payments agreement.

They will now report to their governments. This was announced today by the British Treasury.—Reuter.

HINT OF COMING TROUBLE IN BALKAN REGION

London, Oct. 8.

Bulgaria has decided to keep in her Army a class of military trainees normally due for release, military quarters reported here today.

The move was designed to reinforce the Army with a group of fully-trained men more suitable for emergency tasks than the reservists recalled from civilian life.

Officials linked this with growing reports that of the Turkish minority from Bulgarian territory which was considered a Cominform attempt to create trouble in the area adjoining Bulgaria. The Turkish Government today closed the Turco-Bulgarian border for the second time. Bulgaria was shipping Turkish refugees to Turkey without notice.

INFILTRATION?

A Government spokesman said Communist agents were trying to infiltrate Turkey by posing as refugees.

Bulgarian insistence on the mass exodus of 250,000 Turks probably will seriously disturb Turkey's economy, chiefly because the emigrants were prevented from taking with them more than their personal belongings. Earlier this year, Sofia also charged Turkey with negligence in fulfilling obligations to assure tranquillity and security of Bulgarian Legations and Consulates in Turkey."

Meanwhile, Moscow Radio reported from Sofia that the Bulgarian Foreign Minister had handed a note to the Yugoslav Ambassador, protesting that Bulgarian frontier patrols were fired on by Yugoslavs.

Prompted by these developments, military quarters pointed to the present strategic gaps which are involved and urged modification.—United Press.

Airlift Of 17,000 Sick And Wounded From Korea Fronts

Tokyo, Oct. 8.

A fast airlift of sick and wounded from Korea, which enables soldiers to get a smooth trip from the frontlines to well equipped hospitals in Japan in the same time it would take a jeep to drive them over bumpy roads to a field hospital, has "saved countless lives," Lieutenant-General George E. Stratemeyer pointed out today.

An official air force release carrying his statement added that the hospital airlift as a morale booster is almost as good as a doctor's medicine.

General Stratemeyer said the lift of morale, when wounded men are told they are going to fly from Tokyo to near their home towns and will see their families in two or three days, their joy is almost as good as all of the doctor's medicine.—United Press.

The FEAF commander paid tribute to the devotion of airlift personnel "through their efforts countless of lives undoubtedly have been saved and all have been spared pain and discomfort."

Jeeping wounded to field hospitals would take an hour but helicopters and light planes do it in five minutes. Moving them by ship from Pusan to southern Japan takes 16 hours but combat cargo plane does it in one hour. The trip to the United States home for those requiring long convalescence is cut from 15 days to 27 hours.

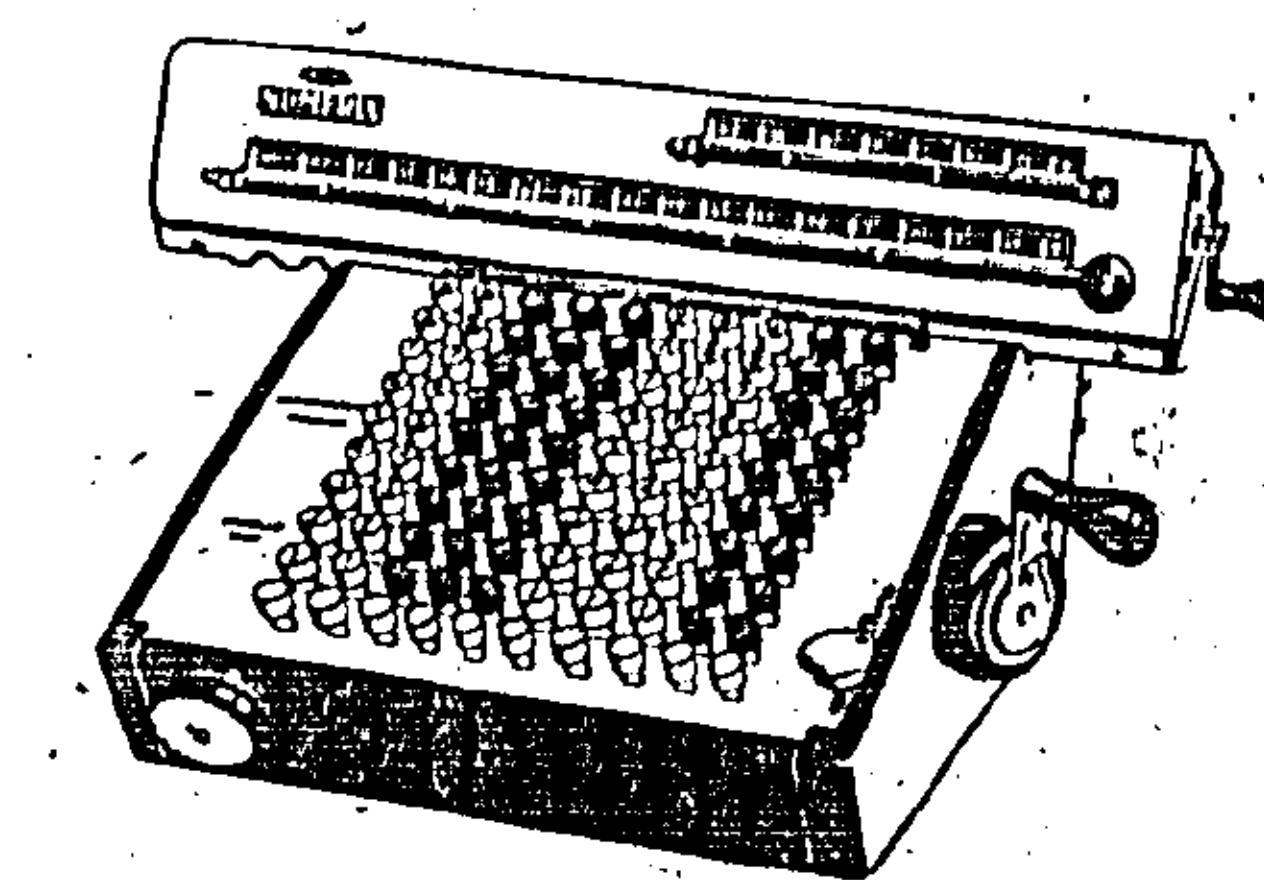

Almost as good as the prompt medical attention in recovery is

No Military Aid For Yugoslavia

Washington, Oct. 8.

A Government official today denied a report that the Big Three recently decided in principle to give military aid to Yugoslavia. The official, who is in a position to know, said the Foreign Minister of Britain, France and the United States did not confer on the question at their New York meeting last month. He said the Western governments had been discussing possible economic aid to Yugoslavia for some time but so far these talks had not dealt with military assistance.—United Press.

Morocco's Sultan Visits France

Bordeaux, Oct. 8. The Sultan of Morocco, Sidi Mohammed Ben Yousef, arrived here today on board the French cruiser, Georges Leygues, on his way to Paris as the guest of President Vincent Auriol.

The Sultan, who is accompanied by his son, the Heir Apparent, Moulay Hassan, will stay two days in Bordeaux.

The principal fear of the Egyptians has been that some scheme might divert or use up most of the Nile waters south of the border before they flowed into Egypt, where millions of lives depend on them. That fear has now been dispelled.—Reuter.

Calculated to take perhaps 20 years to complete, the whole scheme will help to restore rich alluvial flood waters now running to waste.

Egypt and the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan will be able to make use of the stored waters all through the year. This will enable them to regulate agriculture and distribute an increasing population to newly reclaimed and cultivated areas.

Though the great Nile flows mostly through Egypt and the Sudan, its source—the Blue Nile lies in Ethiopia, surrounded by the colonial territories of Britain, France and Italy.

In the Anglo-Egyptian treaty of 1902, the Emperor of Ethiopia pledged not to carry out or authorize any project on the Blue Nile or Lake Tana without the prior agreement of Britain.

The principal fear of the Egyptians has been that some scheme might divert or use up most of the Nile waters south of the border before they flowed into Egypt, where millions of lives depend on them. That fear has now been dispelled.—Reuter.

Ban On The "Butterfly" Stroke At The Olympic Games Will Suit British Swimmers

Ban by the International Federation of the "butterfly" stroke at the 1952 Olympic Games will suit British swimmers. Britain's Association was among the last governing bodies to sanction the stroke, so our swimmers were behind those of other countries. As men were quicker to develop it than women, our girls were especially backward.

National champion Elinor Gordon (Hamilton) is one whose chances will now be even brighter at the Helsinki Games; also the new English junior champion, Jean Wrigley (Lowermoor), who both use the orthodox stroke on 200 metres.

And what happens to the international breast-stroke records, most of which have been made by use of the "butterfly" style?

FOUR-SIDED TOURNEY

The possibility of the Inter-Services triangular rugby tournament becoming a four-sided event is visualised by the news that this season the Civil Service Union are again playing matches against the Royal Navy, the Army and the Royal Air Force.

The weakness of the Civil Service team last season in their games against the Services sides was their inability to "get together" until after the first half hour.

Now, to counter this, the Civil Service Union have extended their match list to include clubs as distinct from representative XV's.

NEW CIVIL SERVANT

Although neither internationals V. G. Roberts (England) and J. D. Higgins (Ireland), nor leading players like P. B. C. Moore (Blackheath) and S. A. Evans (Blackheath) are available, 12 of the tour party have already appeared in Civil Service representative games, including London men C. G. Woodruff (Harlequins), H. P. Lloyd (London CS), R.

Extremely popular and with an appetite his colleagues envy, he has put on a stone and a half in weight.

EXPENSIVE NEWS

The Wasps News Letter (copy No. 2 of which has been sent to me), is one of the best produced of the club rugby publications, some of which are weekly, others monthly and even quarterly; but the life of the WNL will be short if it does not pay its way.

First issue "produced" a loss of £40; whereas the Wasps made a profit of over £50 on the sale of programmes last season.

The WNL keeps members in India, China, Australia, Rhodesia, East Africa, South Africa, Malaya, Canada, Brazil, Ceylon and in sundry Services places in touch with the Sudbury club: there is even a Wasp with the Australian Natural Antarctic Research Expedition.

Watford, Oct. 7.

When he first showed interest in French prospects, the French FA circulated all clubs notifying them that Taylor was available. There was no immediate response; but eventually Rennes, of the 1st Division, signed him.

They have never regretted it. Rennes were champions last season, and Taylor is one of their most consistent scorers.

First match arose from a challenge given in a Paris restaurant after the French championship, when Albert Tingey, the Preston professional, took a team to oppose one raised by Wally Marks as representing Belgium.

THAT HAT

Bert Hawkins, Gravesend and Northfleet centre-forward, has won a hat. He does not know what to do with it, because he does not normally wear one.

A local outfitter offered to give a hat to the first Gravesend player to score a hat trick this season. Hawkins won it easily by scoring all seven goals against Hastings United.

GOLF BEFORE SOCCER

Footballers cannot be found in the Sussex village of Forest Row, which has a recreation ground with a handsome pavilion for them.

The village, population 4,000, is faced with being scratched from the Mid-Sussex League, unless eight players step forward to make up the village soccer team. Two weeks before the start of the season only eight players had signed for the team. Sixteen were needed. Reason given by the villagers is that youth has turned to golf.

AUSSIE VICTORY IN PARIS CYCLING

Paris, Oct. 8.

The Australians, Alfred Strom and Reginald Arnold, today repeated their victory of last year in the 100-kilometre Madison Race at the Velodrome Chiver here.

Robert Mignat and Roger Quegnat, of France, were second and Roger Godeau and B. Boulin, of France, took third place. —Reuter.

England Beat Ireland 4-1 At Soccer

England today won the first home soccer International of the season here, defeating Ireland by four goals to one after leading by 1-0 at half-time. A crowd of 50,000 at Windsor Park watched England, in ideal conditions, clinch the game in the second half after the Irish defence had hung on tenaciously up to the interval.

While a stubborn defence by the Irish halves and backs broke up the cultured football of England in the first half, England never impressed as a good side.

Before the interval, Stanley was well held by the Irish captain, Jack Vernon, who was supreme at centre-half.

Ireland were slow in comparison and failed to accept several good chances.

For Ireland, McMichael had a fine game against England's right-wing, and Gallogher was brilliant at right-back. McCormick, the centre-forward, led the attack well.

Ireland missed two good chances before Billy opened the scoring for England two minutes before the interval. Lee headed England's second goal after 65 minutes, and after McMullan had scored for Ireland five minutes later, Wright and Billy got two England goals in the last five minutes. —Reuter.

THE TEAMS

The teams were:

England: Kelly (Southampton); Goss (Wolverhampton); McMichael (Newcastle); Blanchflower (Barnsley); Vernon (West Bromwich) (captain); Cusack (Glenavon); Campbell (Clydebank); McCormick (Aberdeen); McCorison (Barnsley); Brennan (Fulham); McKeown (Fudderside); Williams (Wolverhampton Wanderers); Ramsey (Totterham Hotspur); Aston (Manchester United); Wilson (Wolverhampton); McCorison (captain); Chilton (Manchester United); Dickenson (Farnsborough); Matthews (West Bromwich); Mannion (Sheffield United); Bally (Tottenham Hotspur).

England were more composed after the interval, but spoiled many attacks by poor finishing. Mannion improved and he and Langton harried the Irish defence continually, but Jack Lee, England's new centre-forward,

WHITE ROSE IS NOW THE FAVOURITE FOR THE CESAREWITCH HANDICAP

London, Oct. 8.

M. Marcel Boussac's filly, White Rose, is the present favourite for the Cesarewitch Handicap, to be run at Newmarket over two and a quarter miles next Wednesday.

Whether or not she will occupy this position in the betting market when the race starts is a matter for conjecture, as only a few points separate her from the four market rivals, consisting of last year's winner, Strathspay, Lord Astor's French Squadron, to be ridden by the Champion jockey, Gordon Richards, and the two three-year-old colts, High Forest, the hope of the North, and Come to Good from the clever Manton stable of George Todd.

White Rose is out of that brilliant French mare, Astronomie, and sired by an equally fine stallion, Goya. She is to be ridden by the big race "master," the Australian-born Rae Johnstone. A four-year-old, she is now in the stable of Harry Wragg at Newmarket.

Add to those facts that she is the sole entry of "Lucky" M. Marcel Boussac and it can be seen why she is the favourite.

ANOTHER MATTER

Whether she is entitled to be on the book of form is another matter. Indeed, there seem to be several others with much better chances.

"With eight stone, four pounds on her back, White Rose has plenty to carry. Her sex is not in her favour for though mares and fillies do better at the back end of the season, one has to go back to 1939 when the French mare, Confidence, won 16 and the last of this sex to win this long-distance event.

Nor will it be on her side if she is the favourite, for only eight first market chances have won since 1939, and the last one to win over this course was Enfield in 1934.

Germanicus, however, was the favourite when winning the wartime race in 1943 over the Newmarket two-mile summer course.

She is, however, at the right age since four-year-olds have won the race 42 times since its inception in 1939. Three-year-olds have a slightly better record with 40 wins.

WEIGHT ABOVE AVERAGE

Her weight is a little above the average which usually wins this race. Indeed, it might be said that this horse that ought to win the race, according to statistics—and these do seem to tell in racing—is one of three or four years of age, weighed between seven and eight stone, not a filly, not a grey, not the favourite but at odds of 33 to 1 under, and ridden by a strong jockey.

The horses in this category are in this year's race number only three, taking the present quotations. They are the Irish-trained On End, the well-backed Come to Good and the Prince Edward Handicap winner, Quixote. And, indeed, it is more than likely that the winner will come from this trio. —Reuter.

WINS RICHEST PRIZE

Paris, Oct. 8.

M. François Dupre's Tantieme by Deux Pour Cent out of Pekka won the £20,000 Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe, over one and a half miles, Europe's richest horse race, at Longchamp today by one length from Baron Guy de Rothschild's Allizer.

Madame Suzy, Volterra's l'Amiral was third, a further length and a half behind, and M. Marcel Boussac's Scratch fourth of the field of 12 runners.

By his victory, Tantieme avenged his defeat in the French Derby by Scratch, the subsequent winner of the Doncaster St. Leger. Tantieme, ridden by Jacques Doyasore, was nervous and sweating in the parade but in the race he went like a great colt.

Allizer, with Fred Palmer up, took the lead on entering the three-furlong straight, but when Tantieme started his run a furlong and a half out the issue was soon settled.

M. Dupre's colt paid 35 to 1 on the 10-franc win stake on the pari-mutuel. Place dividends were 15, 18 and 31. M. Bourzac's stable, represented by Coronation V, Scratch and Astella, was favourite at 10 to 10.

ALL THREE-YEAR-OLDS

The first five horses were all three-year-olds.

Mr Frank More O'Farrell's Irish Derby winner, Dark Warrior, the only foreign challenger in the race, finished eighth.

From the start, Astella led in front of Dark Warrior, with Medium, Coronation and Scratch close behind. With 10 furlongs covered, Astella still held the lead in front of Coronation and Medium.

Entering the straight Allizer came up fast and went in front, followed by Tantieme, Scratch and l'Amiral, but Tantieme cut in a great run to win comfortably while l'Amiral also finished strongly and beat Scratch for the third place.

NOOR DEFEATED

New York, Oct. 8.

The Irish-bred race-horse, Noor, was defeated by four lengths here yesterday in the Jockey Club Gold Cup at Belmont Park.

Three-year-old Hill Prince, owned by Mr C. T. Cheney, won the two-mile race in the comparatively slow time of 3 minutes, 32-2/5 secs.

Hill Prince was ridden by Eddie Arcaro. Johnny Longden was on Noor. Hill Prince carried eight stone, five pounds and Noor eight stone, 12 pounds. —Reuter.

DISCONTENT IN THE PLAYERS' UNION BY Archie Quick

There is discontent in the Players' Union. Arsenal members have withheld this year's subscriptions and West Bromwich Albion and Birmingham City have followed suit. Is it the beginning of a landslide?

Up to the beginning of this season membership was one hundred percent among all League clubs. One player in each club was a collector and not a professional was outside the ranks. Disruption started when Arsenal players objected to paid Chairman Mr Jimmy Guthrie having his salary raised from £12 a week to £15. This was a proposition that was to be put before the next annual meeting.

Guthrie had made a lot of enemies both inside the ranks of the Union and outside it because of his forthright statements in his crusade for better wage conditions for his members. Guthrie is a firebrand, a revolutionary if you like, but to his eternal credit his fight has always been for the professional player and he has been instrumental in getting many improvements for them—the twice quinque a week maximum salary, for instance.

Association have got up to two guineas for the best seats for the Yugoslavia match at Highbury in November. It looks as though everybody will get on a treadmill with price of entrance changing wages and vice versa and poor Mr John Citizen paying through the nose in the end. Not that I think eighteenpence is a decent Saturday afternoon's outlay for ninety minutes' entertainment. In fact, it is about the cheapest of all sport.

China Beats Philippines

China caused a major surprise in yesterday's International Lawn Tennis matches when they beat a strong Philippines team by 19 shots to 17 after an extra head.

In the other games, Pakistan beat India and Malaya eliminated Canada.

The semi-final between China and Malaya and between Pakistan and England will be played off on Saturday.

Results of yesterday's matches were:

J. M. A. Ramjahn, A. M. Ruman, E. I. Arculli and A. M. Omar (Pakistan) beat J. Hoosen, E. R. Markar, A. R. A. Rahman and A. K. Minu (India), 23-14.

R. Tay, F. Lee, G. Hong Choy and W. Hong Siluz (China) beat L. Silva, R. Basa, W. C. Ogle and A. E. Coates (Philippines), 19-17.

A. R. Kitchell, A. H. Seirin, S. Yusuf, and M. B. Hassan (Malaya) beat G. E. Coxello, K. Johnston, C. D. Scaramella and D. Trull (Canada), 24-10.

Bruen, Smithers Win Telegraph Golf Tourney

Formby, Lancashire, Oct. 7.

Jimmy Bruen (Muskeg) and Wally Smithers (Long Ashton) today won one of the major British foursomes golf events when they beat M. Jones (Llandudno) and W. J. Branch (Berkhamstead) four and two in the final of the £2,000 Daily Telegraph amateur - professional tournament.

The 18-holes was played in brilliant sunshine and a tailing wind before a gallery of thousands. Bruen and Smithers had a score of two over four for the 18 holes.

BIG UPSET

Jones and Branch provided the big upset of the meeting in the semi-final this morning when they gained a 18th-hole victory over the favourites, Romilly White (Royal Liverpool) and Dick Burton (Combe Hill).

Bruen and Smithers disposed of John Langley (Stocks Poges), the English Champion, and Sid Scott (Carlisle City) three and two. Smithers had never won a major tournament. His winning professional's cheque was £600. Branch won the runners-up award of £300. —Reuter.

DULLES EXPLAINS U.S. PLAN FOR UNITED NATIONS

Flushing Meadow, Oct. 8. Mr John Foster Dulles, American delegate to the United Nations, said today that the U.S. proposal to strengthen the General Assembly as an effective weapon against aggression was not intended to "bypass, weaken or replace the Security Council."

Mr Dulles, leading Republican Party adviser to the State Department, said that it was "an effort to have additional machinery available in the event the Security Council is unable to fulfil its primary responsibilities."

Slessor Leaves For Canada

London, Oct. 8. Air Chief Marshal Sir John Slessor, Chief of the Air Staff, left London by air tonight for defence talks in Canada and Washington.

He added: "Korea has taught us a number of lessons. Among them is the recognition that the United Nations should not have to improvise the organisation of its police power after an act of aggression has occurred."

Details of the American proposal—which is supported by Britain, France, Canada, Turkey, the Philippines and Uruguay—were made public on Saturday.

It would recommend member nations to maintain within their national armed forces elements to be made available for an international United Nations peace army.

It would also set up a peace-keeping commission of from time to 14 members to observe and report on the situation in any area where there was international tension.

PARALYSING EFFECT

In a statement today, Mr Dulles said that America hoped that the existence of the proposed "stand-by arrangements" to call the General Assembly into session at 24 hours' notice would encourage and promote co-operation within the Security Council.

The United Nations was established five years ago, Mr Dulles pointed out, so that the nations of the world might take "effective collective measures" to maintain peace.

Because of the paralysing effect of the veto in the Security Council the United Nations had not always been able to function in the manner hoped for in 1945.

Adoption of the American proposals, Mr Dulles maintained, "will strengthen the ability of the United Nations to suppress acts of aggression. They will do more than that. They will greatly discourage potential aggressors. They are a roadblock in the path of aggressions."

The Assembly's Political Committee is due to begin a debate on the American proposals tomorrow.—Reuter.

Moslems Urge Kashmir Plebiscite

Karachi, Oct. 8. The Moslem League—the Government Party of Pakistan—today urged the United Nations Security Council to arrange soon a democratic plebiscite in Kashmir.

The State of Kashmir has been the subject of dispute between India and Pakistan since the partition of the Indian sub-continent in 1947.

The United Nations Mediator for Kashmir, Sir Owen Dixon, recently reported that he had been unable to find a solution to the problem.

Today, the Moslem League's General Council unanimously ratified a resolution adopted last night by its Working Committee endorsing the Pakistan Government's stand on the Kashmir dispute and urging the Security Council to arrange "as soon as possible," a "free and impartial plebiscite" in the State.

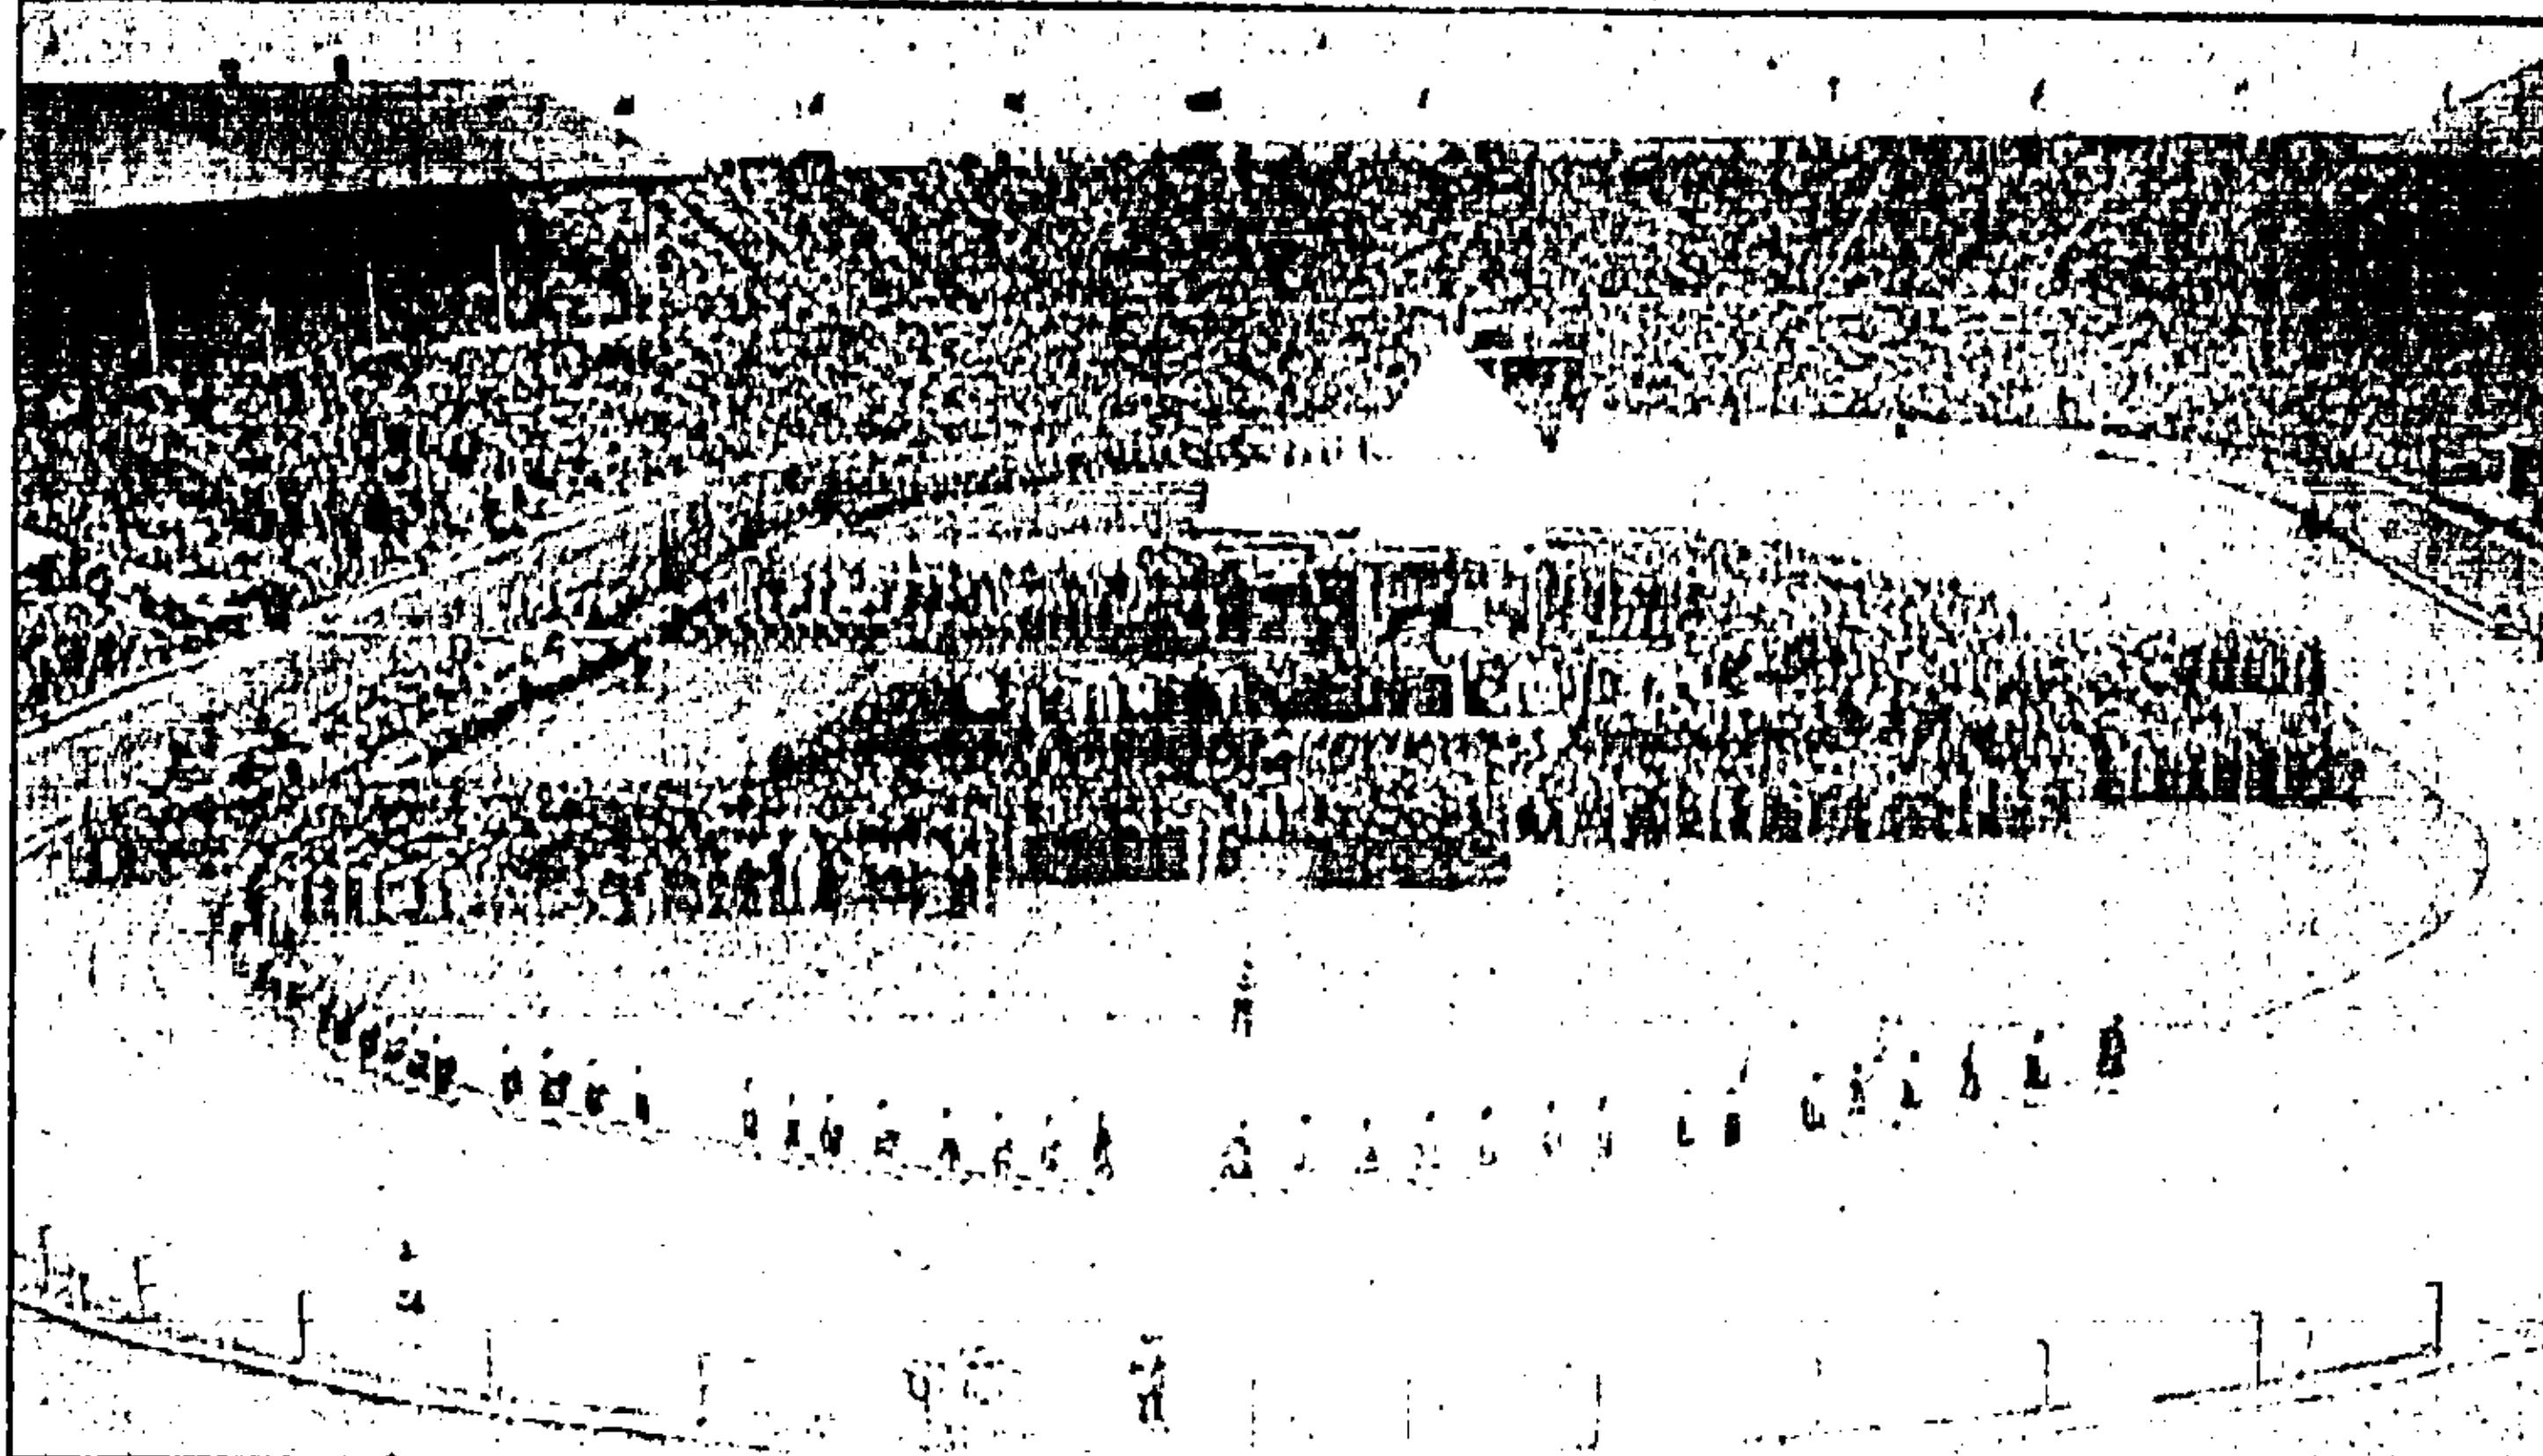

Winding up a debate on the resolution, the Pakistan Prime Minister, Mr Liaquat Ali Khan, condemned as "irresponsible" an earlier speech by a Member criticising the Government for not sending troops to Kashmir and having "banked on the United Nations" instead.—Reuter.

HINDU RESIGNS FROM PAKISTAN GOVERNMENT

Calcutta, Oct. 8. Jogendra Nath Mandal, 44-year-old Hindu member of the Pakistan Central Government, resigned today. An 8,000-word resignation letter sent from here to the Pakistan Prime Minister, Mr Liaquat Ali Khan complained of Pakistan's treatment of Hindu minorities in the "Islam State."

Mr Mandal also spoke of the "economic boycott of Hindus in East Bengal, wholesale requisition of their houses, and non-payment of rent."

On the contrary, he added, "communal propaganda and anti-Indian propaganda by Pakistan, both at home and abroad, is continuing in full swing."

Mr Mandal, who had been Law Minister in the Pakistan Central Cabinet since the inception of the State, came here a fortnight ago for medical treatment.

In his letter of resignation Mr Mandal said: "After an anxious and prolonged struggle I have come to the conclusion that Pakistan is no place for Hindus to live in and that their future is darkened by the ominous shadow of conversion or liquidation."

Today they may—as indeed many of them have already done—abandon their hearth and homes in sorrow and in panic. But tomorrow they will strive for their rightful place in the economy of life," he added.

Mr Mandal's letter, released to the press here tonight, added: "While I am convinced that my continuance in office in the Pakistan Central Government is of no help to Hindus, I should not wish to clear conscience create the false impression in the minds of Hindus of Pakistan and abroad that Hindus can live there with honour and with a sense of security in respect of their life, property and religion."

The major part of Mr Mandal's letter pertained to the defence of the Indian army in East Bengal, which led to communal riots there and conditions prevailing in Pakistan after the signing of the Nehru-Liaquat Ali Khan agreement on minorities on April 8.

Mr Mandal estimated a toll of 10,000 lives in the Dacca and East Bengal riots, which started on February 10 this year. The state, according to Mr Mandal, were fomented by the authorities and by measures calculated to create communal hatred in East Pakistan.

Declaring that conditions had not improved after the Delhi agreement, Mr Mandal said: "With the lapse of time I began to realise that neither the East Bengal Government nor the Moslem League leaders were sincere in implementing the Delhi agreement."

FUTURE DARK

The East Bengal Government was not only slow in setting up machinery envisaged in the Delhi agreement, but also was loth to take effective steps in the implementation of the same.

He added: "Coming now to the present conditions and the prospects for Hindus of East Bengal as a result of the Delhi agreement, I should say that their condition is not only unsatisfactory but absolutely hopeless and their future completely dark."

The confidence of Hindus in East Bengal has not been restored in the least."

The Delhi agreement, which was meant to solve disputes and Frankfurt, Oct. 8. The U.S. High Commissioner, Mr John McCloy, warned the German people tonight that they must share the burden of paying for the new Western drive to meet the threat of Communism.

In a radio "directe chat," Mr McCloy said Germany's hope for peace and security rested on partnership in the European community of nations. He added that such a partnership would not be free.

NEW LAW'S LEGALITY REJECTED

Los Angeles, Oct. 8. A new Los Angeles County Ordinance, requiring Communists to register, has been ruled unconstitutional in its first legal test.

A Judge yesterday ordered the release of Henry Steinberg, aged 39, the first man arrested under the law, which became effective last month.

"The ordinance is defective because it violates the basic constitutional privileges guaranteed to the individual by the first and 14th amendments to the United States Constitution," the Judge said.

Mr Ernest Roll, the Chief Deputy District Attorney, indicated that the case would be carried to the Appellate Department of the Los Angeles County Superior Court.

If this court should uphold Judge Marion's decision, the case would have to be taken to the United States Supreme Court.

The ordinance, which was passed over by the Greek Prime Minister Mr Sophocles Venizelos, was also attended by the American Ambassador to Greece, Mr John Fourtou.—Reuter.

Balkan Reds Maintain Big Armed Force

Athens, Oct. 8.

The Greek High Command estimates that Bulgaria has a force of 200,000 men and 600 tanks and Albania a force of 55,000 men, the Greek General Staff organ, Military News, reported today.

The High Command put this estimate before a conference on October 5 attended by the heads of the British and American military missions in Athens to support its case against a reduction of the Greek Army to 12,000 men as provided for in the Greek budget, the Military News said.

The High Command, represented at the conference by the Commander-in-Chief, General Alexander Papagos, also pointed to the existence in the Communist countries of Eastern Europe of reorganised Greek guerrilla forces which, it said, were ready for a new invasion of Greek territory.

The conference, which was presided over by the Greek Prime Minister Mr Sophocles Venizelos, was also attended by the American Ambassador to Greece, Mr John Fourtou.—Reuter.

REDS' ANSWER

Budapest, Oct. 8. The Hungarian Communist newspaper, Szabad Nepszt, today described the United Nations' Political Committee's resolution condemning Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria for violation of human rights as a "diversionary manoeuvre."

The move, it said, was an attempt to divert public opinion from the facts in Korea and Greece, from the whitewashing of the Franco regime in Spain and from the close Anglo-American co-operation with the "Fascist" Tito Government in Yugoslavia.

"How dare they talk about protecting human rights when the British Labour Government and soldiers to break the strike of gas plant workers and Australia's Government introduces a Fascist bill outlawing the Communist Party?" the newspaper asked.

"How dare they talk about protecting human rights when the members of the horrifying Korean barbarities, the gentlemen of the Labour Party who hire head-hunters to fight Malayan freedom fighters, talk about human rights?"

"We will not tolerate the American protectors of our former exploiters having a say in the internal affairs of Hungary and an opportunity to violate its independence," it added.

It accused Britain and America of violating the peace treaty by keeping Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria out of the United Nations.—Reuter.

Enough Acceptable Officers To Lead New German Army

Washington, Oct. 8. American military experts believe a plentiful supply of "both qualified and politically acceptable" officers will be available in Western Germany to lead such German units as may be formed in the future.

He emphasised that the Western powers were neither "buying nor coercing" their allies to believe and they point for proof of this to the abortive attempt made on Hitler's life in the last days of the war by a group of Army officers.

Military circles here believe United States and German soldiers can work well together on the formation of German units. Authorities here recall that some of the training and tactical techniques still used by the United States Army are Prussian in origin and date back to Revolutionary War days.

Prior to World War I, U.S. officers were occasionally detailed to German staff schools for study.

With the question of selecting German officers for the new German divisions is reached, it is expected that particular effort will be made to single out the "professional soldier" type with a political background as neutral as possible.—United Press.

TIBETAN INVASION STILL A MYSTERY

New Delhi, Oct. 8. Official quarters here had "no information" today on Communist China's claim that her armies had invaded northern Tibet.

An Indian Government spokesman, the Tibetan delegation and the Chinese Embassy all were polled and would neither confirm nor deny the claim, which was made by the government-controlled New China News Agency in Peking.

Morning papers here all carried the United Press story which quoted New China News Agency dispatch as saying the Wang Chen, Communist Party Secretary in China's far northwestern province of Sinkiang, had reported that during the past year the "People's Army entered northern Tibet." Sinkiang borders Tibet on the north.

Communications in that remote area of the central Asian plateau are poor.

The seven-man Tibetan delegation is here for preliminary negotiations on Tibet's future with the Chinese Communist Ambassador.

Communist troops, it is reported, had been massed in Sinkiang and other provinces bordering Tibet for months. The Peking regime, shortly after the collapse of the Nationalist government, had intended to occupy Tibet.—United Press.
